

INVITATION

to attend the FREE Child Health Regional Forum

Profile Productions have been organising FREE events for Child Health Professionals for over 40 years, helping you keep up-to-date with current issues and challenges faced by families and parents throughout the country. The schedule for 2017 continues to deliver quality education on your doorstep with the added benefits of networking with your local colleagues and discovering what products are available to the families you support. The Child Health Regional Forum series is free to attend, relevant to your practice and an ideal opportunity to update your learning locally.

What do our delegates say?

'Excellent speakers and both presentations were well presented, interesting and topical' London

'I enjoyed networking with the other professionals' Durham

'Simply brilliant, clearly very passionate about FGM' Leeds

'Wonderful inspiring talk' Leeds

Responding to Female Genital Mutilation

Toks Okeniyi

Head of Programmes & Operations, FORWARD

Toks Okeniyi is the Head of Programmes and Operations at FORWARD, the lead organisation in the UK tackling female genital mutilation (FGM) and other gender based violence. At FORWARD Toks develops transparent decision-making processes within the UK Programmes, Project Teams and Senior Management in line with the values of FORWARD. In addition, Toks leads on the planning and delivery of Psychosocial Educational sessions on FGM.

Prior to joining FORWARD, She was Director of Services and Acting Chief Executive at the Royal Court of Justice Advice Bureau, an organisation that helps litigants in person navigate the court system and comply with civil procedure rules.

She served at several organisations designing and delivering successful programs in management development, team building, diversity, communications, customer service, change management, training, and performance management as well as many other topics.

Toks holds a post graduate qualification in Law, Project management and is also a magistrate. She is a fellow of the Royal Society of Public Health and Chartered Management Institute UK.

She is passionate about ensuring that individuals who are vulnerable or discriminated against are able to avail themselves of their rights and have a credible voice.
